PAWS Wildlife Center

15305 44th Ave. W, Lynnwood WA 98087

Hours of Operation: 8:00am-5:00pm daily October-March

8:00am-7:00pm daily April-September

Phone: 425-412-4040 x917

The highlight is our 24/7 self-service form on the paws.org website that instructs people on the initial steps to help wildlife until they can speak with us directly.

PAWS Wildlife Center is open 7 days a week. We accept birds, mammals, reptiles, and amphibians who are sick, orphaned or injured. We do have some species limitations that fluctuate with season/space availability, so it is best to call ahead or use our online self-service form before bringing in an animal. During our open hours, our Wildlife Admissions Specialists are also available via phone to help citizens resolve wildlife conflicts, provide expert capture or handling advice, and more. Currently we are the closest permitted wildlife center to the South end of Whidbey Island.

It is always a good reminder that Washington State allows a maximum of 24 hours for non-permitted citizens to transport wildlife to a licensed and permitted facility. This grace period is to allow for transportation flexibility, not an allowance for people to try and care for these animals themselves.

SARVEY Wildlife Care Center

13106 148th St NE, Arlington, WA 98223

Hours of Operation: 8:00am-4:00pm daily

www.sarveywildlife.org

Phone: 360-435-4817

We accept all species of birds and mammals. People should call us for wildlife related concerns, and we take in patients during our normal business hours. We ask that if it is after hours, people contain the animal in a quiet, warm place overnight and bring to us in the a.m.

WOLF HOLLOW Wildlife Rehabilitation Center

Friday Harbor, San Juan Island

Phone: 360-378-5000

We serve all of San Juan County, Skagit County, and the northern part of Whidbey Island. We have a network of Animal Transport Volunteers who help rescue animals or pick them up from the public, then arrange transport out to San Juan by ferry or plane. How fast we can do that depends on the number of volunteers we have in an area and who is available at any given time, then on the ferry and air schedules.

We treat a wide range of animals including songbirds, raptors, waterbirds (when HPAI is not an issue), and small/medium mammals. Despite our name, we can't treat larger animals like wolves, cougar, bears etc. Our rehab center is open 7 days a week to receive calls and animals (timing varies depending on the time of year), and after hours, staff members take it in turns to carry a cell phone so we can respond to emergencies.
